

It wasn't actually our idea ...

... but we perfected it.

Sometimes there are problems that seem unsolvable. Cranes carry loads and need to be stable. But stable also always means heavy.

Not so with our light crane system LIGHTster: it's largely constructed of aluminium and is therefore so light that it even works where previously crane operation was out of the question because of structural restrictions. There are also rumours that say some buy it just because of its fantastic good looks ... rumours!
