It can be done!

There are things that just can't be done – and there are people who just don't believe that. We, for example, couldn't believe that there were circumstances where crane operation could be difficult or even impossible. As we said, we didn't believe that, therefore we developed our light crane system LIGHTster. It's made mainly of aluminium, making it so light it even works where previously crane operation was out of the question because of structural restrictions. So there's no such thing as "can't be done" – at least not with us.
